HARDING'S VIEWS ON BONUS PLAN ARE DELAYED

Failure to Give Expected Decision Leaves Congress in a Quandary

ACTIVITY SUSPENDED

Volume of Protests Against New Taxation From All Over the Country Continues to Increase

Washington, Feb. 16.—Either through indecision or delay in receiving necessary data from the Treasury, President Harding failed yesterday to communicate his revised views yesterday regarding soldier bonus legislation to the joint committee of Congress considering ways and means of financing the enterprise.

This silence on the part of the White House left Congress high in the air over the whole business. The joint committee suspended all activity, not knowing which way to turn. Individual members of both Houses pledged to the bonus did lots of brave talking, but nothing more. The opposition smiled contentedly as it contemplated the predicament in which advocates of the legislation found themselves.

Meanwhile the volume of complaint from the country continued to increase. Alarmed by the publication a week ago of the program of taxation suggested by the Treasury, thousands of protesting letters and telegrams have poured into Washington from interests which hitherto had seemed indifferent as to the effect either of fresh taxation or a new bond issue.

No official explanation of the President's change of mind regarding his letter to the committee was vouched at the White House last night. As late as 6 o'clock it was stated that his letter remained unwritten and the suggestion was passed out that it would not go to the Capitol before tomorrow. At the press conference Tuesday Mr. Harding had indicated definitely that he would send a communication to the joint committee some time Wednesday.

An intimation that the President was awaiting further data from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon was taken in some quarters to indicate that Mr. Harding will propose a substitute scheme for raising the bonus money, perhaps a sales tax. If he means to recommend a further delay in the enactment of the bonus legislation, he need not wait for the Treasury to act, it is argued.

Congressional leaders continue to discuss informal various proposals which might conceivably meet with executive approval. They all realize, of course, that with the opposition to the bonus growing, it will be difficult if not impossible, to pass any bill over a Presidential veto.

In one-quarter it was declared that the House and Senate, in order to square themselves with the bonus petitioners, might go ahead and enact a bonus bill without providing any means of raising the money. This was the original scheme of the Ways and Means Committee, but it was abandoned weeks ago, when the President served notice that he would not stand for it.

Then, too, the idea of an issue of short term certificates was discussed as a solution for the problem. These, it was contended, could be sold to the banks as are other Government securities of that character. Such an issue, it was contended, would not necessarily affect the bond market and could be refunded or redeemed at some future time. Nobody seemed to know, however, whether such notes would come within the prohibition laid down by the President yesterday when he ruled out all bond proposals.

Power of Public Opinion

Subject of Address By Rev. Dr. Hall Before Kiwanis Club

"The Power of Public Opinion." was the subject of address delivered by Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church this afternoon before the Kiwanis Club at its weekly luncheon held in the Westminster building. During the course of his remarks the speaker touched on race track gambling in Maryland, prison conditions throughout the country and the alleged divorce evil in this city.

Boost prizes were distributed by John H. Trimyer and J. Randall Caton.

Richmond—Several hundred dollars, which is to be used as a relief fund for the victims of the Lexington Hotel disaster, have been received by W. Fleet Kirk, chairman of the organization which is raising the fund. The exact sum received has not been acknowledged by Mr. Kirk, because, he states, several persons have sums to contribute during the week.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

Washington, Feb. 16.—Republican members of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Senate Committee on Commerce have informed Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board that they approve in substance what is known as the Harding-Lasker plan for direct and indirect subsidies for the American merchant marine. The Committee members urged Lasker to have the President get the plan before Congress as soon as possible, and it is understood that the Executive will go before a joint session sometime next week.

Under the direct subsidy plan it is understood that payments would be made direct to American vessels. The payments would be graduated in accordance with the speed of the vessel, the minimum payment being one-half cent for each ton for each one hundred miles. It was estimated that an appropriation of $30,000,000 would be necessary to carry out this part of the program.

The indirect subsidy would provide for giving the American mail and a percentage of American immigration to American vessels. The plan would also provide for preferential rail rates on goods carried in Americans bottoms.

A plan to pay the soldier bonus out of the current revenues of the government through savings effected in cutting down the military establishment and in cutting down the general expenses of the government was being worked out today by the House Ways and Means Committee.

It is understood that the plan has the endorsement of the President and that his letter to the Committee will outline in detail a plan for paying the bonus by such means.

While the details of the plan have not yet been worked out, it is known that the plan involves the using of the savings of the current year effected by General Dawes to pay the first cost of the soldiers' bonus. Up to this time this saving has been $136,000,000 according to President Harding's speech to the government's business organization on February 3, and it will be greater by the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

It also provides for cutting down the navy to as few as 50,000 or 50,000 men, in place of the 96,000 asked by Secretary of the Navy Denby, and reducing the army to about 75,000 men. The general estimates are that these cuts or cuts similar to them, will effect, in the year beginning July 1, 1922, savings sufficient to pay the full cost of the soldier bonus, provided that the present taxes are maintained as they are.

PROGRESSIVE SPIRIT OF CITY IS PRAISED

Writer to Mayor Voices Approval of Proposed Improvements

FOR THE WHITE WAY

Also Favors Turnpike to Fairfax, Ferry to Maryland Side and Municipal Pier.

L. F. Wakefield, of Washington, has written a letter to Mayor Duncan in which the writer takes occasion to laud the progressive spirit of the mayor, business men of the city and chamber of commerce for their move to improve the city looking to a greater Alexandria.

The writer in part says: "I am certainly glad we are going to have a highway connecting Alexandria with the Valley of Virginia, opening up to Alexandria the finest section of the state. With that assured get your board to fight for the proposed ferry line across to the Maryland side of the Potomac, also start interest along the idea of a municipal pier on the water front. This will attract people to visit Alexandria and prove a much needed stimulent. I have discussed the proposed pier with a number of Alexandrians and all expressed themselves as heartily favoring the proposition.

"With a white way extending to the river front, plenty of clean amusements including music and a dance pavilion and, in fact, a real place of clean enjoyment will benefit your city and cause needed change.

"Thanking you and your board for your efficient and untiring efforts regarding the highway to Fairfax Courthouse, making it possible for me to erect a modern bungalow at my old home place in Annandale, I beg to remain, yours truly,

ULSTERITES ARE FREED THROUGH AID OF COLLINS

Provisional President's Motives Are Defended by Churchill

DEBATE ON TREATY

Irish Bulletin States British Government Will Release Only Half Of Political Prisoners

London, Feb. 16.—Michael Collins, head of the Irish Provisional Government, has secured the release of 15 of the Ulster Unionists recently kidnapped, it was announced in the House of Commons yesterday by Winston Churchill, Colonial Secretary. Reports received from Dublin later in the day stated that eleven more had been released.

Mr. Churchill stated that at his suggestion Premier Craig of Ulster has agreed to the appointment of impartial commissions who would go to the border area, ascertain the facts as to the conditions there, and keep in close touch with each other in order to allay, if possible, the great apprehension existing on each side of the border at the action being taken on the other side.

Mr. Churchill said he saw Mr. Collins' message to the American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic, but that it did not, in his opinion, call for comment. The Unionist members cheered derisively.

Sir John Butcher asked Mr. Churchill whether he would inform Mr. Collins that a threat of war against England by Ireland was not conducive to good government in Southern Ireland, or to cordial relations between the North and the South.

The Colonial Secretary answered that in his opinion the whole problem of Mr. Collins' statement was to facilitate acceptance of the treaty, and that he did not think more should be made of it than is necessary. He further said that messages he had received indicated that there was great apprehension in the North; that there might be some violent incursion from the South; that large numbers of the Irish Republican army were assembling in villages in County Monaghan, and that there might be an attack. On the other hand, he said there were considerable movements of armed constables north of the border, causing similar apprehension in the South. He had, therefore, proposed the appointment of impartial commissions composed of several British in each, and of officers of the opposing side.

With reference to the disorders at Belfast, Mr. Churchill said he had received messages concerning the trouble exciting a number of murders, including a bomb thrown among some children, of whom 17 were in a hospital in a mutilated condition.

The London edition of the Irish Bulletin yesterday stated that the British Government has decided to release only half the Irish political prisoners in Great Britain, and that this further discrimination "has caused intense indignation of Irish residents throughout the country, and preparations are being made to intensify the campaign of protest against the haggling methods of the British Government."

BRILLIANT SCENE

The Valentine Costume Ball, which was given in benefit of Alexandria Hospital by the Auxiliary Board of the hospital in Elks' Hall last night, turned out to be the success it fas hoped to be. Final statement of the financial affairs is not obtainable at present, but it is thought that the sum realized will prove to be a rather substantial one.

The High School orchestra—five pieces—started the music at 7:30 and the 'kiddies" danced and played until their mamas called a halt and sent them to bed at 9 o'clock. During this time the costumes were admired and judged. Charles Holden, jr. was awarded the prize for being the most appropriately bedecked young man, and little Miss Reynolds was picked as the correspondingly well costumed little lady. The prizes were a handsome pencil box and a beautiful "mama" doll respectively, which were donated by S. F. Dyson and Bro.

The orchestra led by Dutch Whalen replaced the High School orchestra at 9 o'clock and the hall was rapidly filled with the dancers, who were costumed in everything from the robes of the King of Hearts to the bright colored dress of a gypsy lass. Confetti was showered upon the dancers, who continued to dance until an hour past the midnight, when the "Home, Sweet Home" number was played.

Miss Fannie Carter, superintendent of the Hospital, and Mrs. Samuel Monroe escorted the nurses of the hospital. The hall was filled all the evening. Many out of town people were present. Flowers were sold and several plants were raffled off.

The committee in charge wish to thank all who in any way helped to make the affair the success which it has proved to be.

AT RICHMOND LEGISLATION

House Proceedings

Speaker Brewer called the House of Delegates to order at 11:10 o'clock prayer was offered by Rev. William S. Golden, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church. Following the reading of Senate communications and reports of House committees, Clerk Williams read an invitation to the members to attend the Made-in-Richmond Exhibit, and on motion of Delegate Fuller, of Richmond, the invitation was accepted for Monday night.

A resolution was offered for the placing of an electric voting machine in the House of Delegates to be tried out by the General Assembly of 1924. Flpor Leader Willis said that the time had come when the Legislature of Virginia must have sessions of ninety days or adopt a mechanical voting device. The cost of the contrivance is $25,000. The proposition was left on the clerk's desk for the members to examine.

House Bill, No. 23, prohibiting the sale of deer in Virginia was passed; vote 79 to 2.

House Bill, No. 28, authorizing the State Board of Education to extend contracts for school books for a period of one year, was passed; vote 83 to 1.

Senate Bills, No. 4, No. 82, No. 86, No. 124 and No. 5 were read for the second time and advanced to third reading.

House Bills, No. 35, to regulate the use of lights on vehicles in operation or at rest on public highways, was dismissed from the calendar after practically eighty-five of the counties of the State asked to be exempted from its provisions.

House Bill, No. 40, relative to the time for penalty for nonpayment of taxes, was amended to place the penalty date on December 20, instead of December 1, thus giving more time for farmers to get in their crop money and meet their obligations was advanced to engrossment.

House Bill, No. 45, making it a misdemeanor to publish the name or photograph of any maid, woman or woman-child upon whom a criminal offense has been attempted or committed, was amended to include "whosoever publishes, or causes to be sold or circulated, or causes to be published, the name, etc., shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than three years, was advanced to engrossment. The debate was extended, Delegate Norris, of Lancaster, speaking on the Constitutional features of the bill, which measure he declared would be unconstitutional.

The House adjourned at 2:10 o'clock to meet this morning at 11 o'clock.

Senate Proceedings

For the second time in two days, the State Senate yesterday declined to vote to raise the compensation of the General Assembly, beginning with the next session. The vote which killed the bill was substantially that of the preceding day, the result being 22 to 13.

Senator James E. Cannon, of Richmond, patron of the measure, strongly defended it. The question came up on a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill had been defeated on Tuesday. The motion prevailed on the understanding that Senator W. A. Garrett, chairman of the Finance Committee, had an amendment to offer. His amendments, placing the per diem for members of the Legislature at $10 a day, of $2 lower than the original bill and $2 higher than the present rate, was carried. Senator Garrett, however, was among those voting against the increase on the bill being put on its passage.

With a number of patrons a bill, providing for a bond issue of $12,000,000 for roads, will be introduced in the Senate this morning by General C. C. Vaughan, Jr., of Franklin. The bill is practically the same as that now in committee in the House and has the indorsement of the Virginia Good Roads Association.

The bill provides for the issuance of the bonds, the money to be expended by the State Highway Commission over a period of the next two fiscal years. It differs from the House bill only in regard to the sinking fund provision.

INCOME TAXES

Internal Revenue Office Will be Open Daily Till March 15

The internal revenue office in this city will be open from now till March 15 for the payment of income taxes. Already a majority of persons in the city have received the necessary blanks to be filled out from the Richmond office of the internal revenue bureau. Few persons have yet, however, filed their report. It is expected that the officials here will have their rush after March 1 and that it will continue till the hour of closing March 15.

MIDSHIPMEN MAY NOT BE COMMISSIONED

House Committee Reported to Have Agreed Upon Plan to Save

SEEKS FURTHER CUT

Figures for Year of $250,000,000 For Navy Most Persistently Talked of In Congress

Washington, Feb. 16.—The House Naval Committee, in trying to discover some way of reducing appropriations for the naval establishment next year, was reported yesterday to have agreed informally to recommend that the first class at Annapolis, to be graduated in June, be turned back to civil life without commissions in the Navy.

Although members declined to discuss this proposal, it is understood that such a recommendation probably will be made, along with the further proposal that the number of men to be admitted to the academy each year be reduced from five to two for each member of Congress.

Secretary Denby proposed that the reduction be cut on a Congressional allotment from five to three.

There are about 540 members of the first class, all of whom naturally expected to be sent to sea. A committeeman, urging that the entire class be dropped, declared final decision on this question would be reached at the earliest possible time to let the midshipment know whether they could expect to remain on the Government payroll.

While the committee continued today to hear naval experts tell of the needs for the next fiscal year under what they described as "the theaty navy" House members were canvassing among themselves in an effort to find how much could be cut from Secretary Denby's estimate of $350,000,000 for the next fiscal year.

On all sides it was admitted that the drive for a reduction from that figure was gaining headway, although many leaders insisted that to cut much under the Denby estimate would put the navy below the ratio rating fixed by the Arms Conference.

The figure most persistently mentioned as the most probable to be set by the Appropriations Committee, was $250,000,000.

There were many claims by "little naval men" demanding drastic cuts, but the House, at least, would not stand for more than $200,000,000.

In asking for $350,000,000, Secretary Denby explained that this amount would give the navy an enlisted personnel of 90,000 or 10,000 less than fixed by the last Appropriation bill. Nobody in authority was prepared to say offhand what the enlisted personnel would be if only $200,000,000 was authorized, although all agreed it would scrap the "treaty navy" and give it an actual strength less than that allotted by the Conference to Japan.

It was indicated that even the Naval committee might not support Mr. Denby's request that the personnel of line officers be left intact. It would not follow his sugestion in standing out against commissions for the first class at Annapolis, which he strongly recommended.

The committee, it is said, probably will ask Congress to repeal the law under which retired officers are not permitted to be associated with concerns contracting to supply naval supplies or war materials to the Government.

UNABLE TO TRACE MAN'S RELATIVES

Atlanta Police Notify Chief Goods to That Effect

Stranger Believed to be Named Brannan Killed by Train February 8th West of City

The Atlanta, Ga. police have been unable to find any trace of relatives of a man believed by the police to be named Brannan, who on February 8 was struck and killed by a Southern Railway passenger train according to a letter received today by Chief of police C. T. Goods from Chief of Police James L. Beavers, Atlanta.

In his letter, the Atlanta chief said the police of that city have made every effort to locate relatives of this man, but so far have been unable to find any trace of his people in that city. The chief also says he has requested the daily papers to publish an item regarding the man and in this way they may be able to locate the man's relatives.

The body of the unknown is still being held at Demaine's mortuary chapel, awaiting identification.

A day after the man was killed a Mr. White, station agent at Burke, Va., notified Undertaker Demaine that a man answering the description of the unknown stayed at his place for two or three days prior to the accident and that he told him his name was Brannan and that he had been employed in Atlanta as a shipping clerk and that he had a brother who lived in Massachusetts.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt told the naval affairs committee that the Navy Department is not prepared at this time to say what shore stations may be abolished or curtailed under the limitation program agreed to at the Washington conference.

The military affairs committee heard an appeal from Governor Alfred A. Taylor of Tennessee urging adoption by Congress of Henry Ford's offer to take over the government's power properties at Muscle Shoals, Ala.

"No corporation," said Gov. Taylor, "should bear the name of Tennessee and Alabama which opposes the immediate acceptance of the Ford offer by this committee, and while I always shall hope not to strain Tennessee's hospitality to any corporation desiring to build up the State of Tennessee, yet I must say that no corporation or individual is welcome in Tennessee which opposes the immediate adoption by Congress of the Ford offer."

Chairman Fordney, of the ways and means committee, introduced a resolution authorizing a loan of $5,000,000 to Liberia in accordance with an agreement made during the war.

Oppose Juvenile Court

The following letter has been received by Mayor J. M. Duncan from Frank G. Campbell anent the proposed establishment of juvenile judges in the state and the letter explains itself:

Hon. James Duncan,
Mayor,
Alexandria, Va..
Dear Mr. Duncan:

I note that you have been appointed one of a committee to go to Richmond to oppose the establishment of a Juvenile Court in the State. This is to say that I sincerely trust that you succeed. In my opinion the Juvenile Courts are largely responsible for present conditions in this country.

In the wove of crime sweeping the United States we are paying the penalty for a quarter of a century of wallowing in maudlin sentiment.

Juvenile Courts, as administered, are doing much greater harm than good. It is notable that many of the most startling crimes of today are committed by very young men. These are the boys who ten years ago were being put on probation, paroled, given suspended sentences and the like by a lot of well meaning, soft hearted visionaries. Twenty-five years ago the amount of serious crime among children was so small as to be negligible. Then came moral suasionists. The Black Death, a plague of seven year locusts or any other of the curses that have fallen upon mankind at one time or another would not have left such frightful consequences in their wake as their doctrine has left.

According to these folks, Solomon, while reasonably wise in most things, had slipped a cog with respect to the disciplining of children. The parent who believed that firm dicipline in a child's formative years would be more than compensated for by the inculcation in the mind of the child of a reasonable consideration for the rights and feelings of other people, was gently but firmly rebuked. He was told that only persuasion should be used in the control of a child, and that for corporal punishment, that it was absolutely savagery—nothing less. That preachment was the beginning of the breaking down of parental control of the child. Parents quick to seize upon this good excuse for avoiding the disagreeable duty of controlling and disciplining their children fell into line hoping that perhaps the new scheme would work out all right.

From the family the moral suasionists marched on to the courts and legislatures with the result that a saturnalia crime exists among children today where it was practically non-existent twenty-five years ago.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Any theory must give way to the facts that develop when the theory is tested. From all sides come testimony of the frightful increase in Juvenile crime and the end is not yet.

Any successful movement to check the crime wave must begin with the Juvenile Court and radically change the present conduct of these institutions. There must be a stiffening of disciplinatory action upon the part of the officers of such institutions, but also, which is far more important, the parent must be required to do his part in preventing his offspring from becoming a public nuisance if not a public menace.

It would be a calamity for those visionaries to get their clutches on our state. Let's hold to a little garden variety horse sense for a while yet. It has worked well so far for us.

Yours very truly,

Frank G. Campbell.

LEWIS PLAN IS HARD HIT IN HOWAT VOTE

Radical Kansas Miners Score Heavily Over International President

COME-BACK PLANNED

Scheme of President Lewis to Appeal to Public Sympathy is Imperiled

Indianapolis, Feb. 16.—In a session yesterday of the United Mine Workers, marked by violent uproar, the Kansas radicals under Alexander Howat scored heavily against John L. Lewis, president of the union.

By a vote of 977 to 864, the delegates by a rising vote registered its disapproval of a ruling by Lewis which denied Howat the right to appeal to the convention for a restoration of his membership in the union.

The vote was taken amid a scene of intense excitement. Threats of physical violence were hurled about the auditorium, and in the course of the debate Lewis charged that Kansas extremists had deliberately plotted to "get" him during a demonstration in the convention. Aiding Howat in his marshaling of the insurgent elements was Frank Farrington, head of the Illinois miners.

President Lewis plans a "comeback" today. His people demanded a roll call. He himself professes confidence that when only accredited delegates vote he will win by an easy margin. And if he wins he thinks the public will be reassured against fears that the Howat extremists are actually in control of the miners' organization. He feels sure that the plan of campaign based on the report of the scale committee will be protected.

In the meantime, however, it is recognized that the carefully conceived plan of Mr. Lewis and his associates to win the favor of public opinion over the coal operators has been endangered, and the whole conduct of the negotiations with the operators between now and March 13, and of the strike that probably will be called as of April 1, has been thrown into doubt. The situation may get completely out of the hands of the moderates.

Howat, whom Lewis expelled from the union for refusal to call off unauthorized strikes, appeared on the floor of the convention today and asked that the convention pass on his case. He and Lewis engaged in a running debate, which ended when Lewis ruled his plea out of order.

Howat appealed from the chair's decision. Lewis decided to let the convention vote on the appeal, although holding that Howat had no standing in the convention, He and Howat made set arguments. The convention was amazed when Howat won.

Few either of the miners' leaders or of the coal operators watching the convention from the side lines believe that negotiations can go far enough under the Lewis plan by March 31 to prevent a strike.

THE MOVIES

Our friend, Harmon Reed, whose life-work is dedicated to Better Movies for Greater Alexandria, has sent to the editorial sanctum of the Gazette a copy of one of Arthur Brisbane's inimitable sermonettes on Moving Pictures, with a request that we write our own views on this absorbing topic. This we do cheerfully, not only because the Movies are to us one of the most powerful educative influences of the day, but because we believe they should be fostered and encouraged and supported and sustained by every man woman and child in the community. We go so far as to say that the Movies are not unlike the ubiquitous jazz music of the day, in that bad movies are better than no movies; just as jazz music is better than no music. Through them a taste is cultivated, perhaps created, that can easily be led upwards to the best and highest and noblest.

Last week we went to the Richmond to see a play, the sterling merits of which were effectively hidden in the title. It was called "All for a Woman"—or by some such inane appellation, and we expected to see some sickly presentation of a screen melodrama. In fact, had we not been more than usually fagged out and in dire need of mental change of atmosphere we would not have gone. Imagine our surprise, then, when we found ourselves face to face with the great characters of the French Revolution, Danton, Robespierre, Desmoulin and others whose names are writ large in the blood and flame of that terribly fascinating period of history. Carlyle's words are no more graphic, no more breath-gasping and spine-curdling than these tremendous pictures enacted in the flesh by men and women of unusual talent. Danton and Robespierre were of the order of genius. The scenes were of absolute fidelity to the historic setting. The houses, the streets, the interiors marvellously reproduced as of the fateful year of '93. An hour of history with this Screen Drama is worth pages and pages of printer's ink! Why was not this advertised for what it was, instead of being cursed with so mawkish a title as "All for a Woman?"

Then again, this week, we went to see "Rip Van Winkle," as portrayed by Thomas Jefferson, son of the immortal Joseph, and an excellent actor himself. The traditions were entirely of the elder stage and the scenes given a vivid reality never equalled by the spoken drama. In fact, the Screen Drama has an unapprochable superiority over the Spoken Drama in this respect, that contributes to it one of its greatest trimphs, and which alone means everlasting life so long as the human race shall endure.

Either of these plays was well worth going twenty miles to see. The theatre should have been crowded all the hours of its opening on both occasions and it is with a view of arousing our readers to the educational importance as well as the keen enjoyment obtainable, that we from time to time write of our local movies, what they mean, what they are doing, and what they propose doing. The music at the Richmond is given by three talented artists, with the piano, the violin and the cello, and is alone worth the trifling sum paid for the whole.

The Movies are to the Spoken Drama and to dramatic literature, what the invention of movable types was to all other literature In other words they render accessible to the millions what formerly was ouly to be had by the elect few. With the papyrus or the vellum of ancient days the scholars of any country could be numbered on one hand. With the advent of Gutenberg they began to reach the thousands. Today owing to the newspaper and the and the magazine and the cheap books—millions in the United States know more and are better educated than royalty and nobility a few centuries back.

In the spoken drama a good voice and a natural talent for elocution are indispensable. These are rare gifts. Nature is always niggardly in her endowments. This is why there are never more than three or four actors of the first order of genius at any given period. In the Movies the voice is dispensed with. The human element requires only the gift of mimicry and facial expression. There is not a child born into the world that is not born a mimic; and this is why the children in the Movies today are so often better than their elders in the same play. As for scenery and setting there is and can be no comparison between the possibilities of the screen drama and the physical limitations that must always hamper the mise-en-scene of the spoken drama.

We are as yet but in the infancy of the Silver Screen. Each day sees some improvement, some step forward hitherto undreamed of. The future is full of stupendous surprises. It will require, too, at least a generation more before human talent and genius reaches its final development in the art of facial expression and gesture and pose. This is already begun. And another ten or twenty years will see the Movies firmly enthroned as perhaps the leading educational force in the world. At least they will take their place right royally as sharing the throne with the printed page, the spoken drama and the arts of sculpture, painting and music.

PRESENTS PORTRAITS

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 14.—Dr. Stuart McGuire, of Richmond, Va., has presented to the library of the College of William and Mary portraits of his great grandfather, Judge Archibald Stuart, and of his grandfather, Hon. A. H. H. Stuart.

Judge Stuart was one of the men famous in the days of and following the Revolution. While at William and Mary he became one of the original members of the Phi Beta Kappa Society. He was prominent in all state affairs, being a gifted lawyer and an able judge.

Hon. A. H. H. Stuart was a student at William and Mary in 1824-25, and while at college was a friend of the Rogers Brothers. He became very prominent in Virginia as a legislator, and was at one time Secretary of the Interior. He was also a member of Congress from Virginia, a member of the State Senate from 1857 to 1861, and a delegate to the National Union Convention in 1866.

The formal presentation of the portraits will take place in the near future, the date to be announced later.

GOOD ROADS BONDS

The probe of the State Highway Department and Commissioner Coleman's administration was completed by the legislative investigating committee last Friday, and resulted in a complete vindication for Commissioner Coleman.

It is generally conceded that the Byrd-Ozlin bill to legislate Commissioner Coleman out of office is dead, and that the Goolrick-Vaughan bill, approved by Virginia Good Roads Association, will be passed. This bill transfers from Commissioner Coleman to the five members of the Highway Commission, to be appointed by Governor Trinkle and to serve during his administration, the duty of deciding between routes, allocating construction funds, and awarding contracts.

Governor Trinkle having stated that he would support any highway organization approved by the General Assembly, and the financial situation having cleared, while labor and materials are cheap, it is expected that Governor Trinkle will be glad to approve a bind bill for a reasonable amount, properly safeguarded in every respect.

General C. C. Vaughan, Jr., and Col. Thomas B. McAdams, who are recognized as leading bankers in Virginia and the country at large, have practially completed the details of the bill providing for a bond issue to supplement State highway construction. It has been deemed wise to adopt the conservative course of authorizing only a small bond issue of $12,000,000, during the next two years, in order that a fair test may be made before going further. The bond bill being perfected will, therefore, provide for $12,000,000 to be issued by the Governor during 1922 and 1923, provide he considers financial conditions favorable, and is satisfied the money can and will be economically and efficiently expended.

The financial situation is improving so much that the bill will limit the rate of interest to 4 1-2 per cent and provides that the bonds shall be sold at not less than par, and that a definite amount from the present income for road construction be set aside for the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds as they mature. The bonds will be deferred serials, payable in periodical installments beginning in 1930, and no bond will run for over thirty years. The friends of the good roads movement insist that the law shall require the bonds and interest to be paid out of the present revenues without any increase in taxes, and this feature is meeting with approval of the members of the House who were at first apprehensive that taxes would be increased.

All highway funds now in the Treasury will be checked out during the year 1922 on contracts now under way, and the Highway Department is practially without funds for new construction, inasmuch as the 10 cent tax is now collected until next December. The total construction funds for this year, including Federal funds, and excluding the funds reserved to pay for contracts under way, amount to something over $4,500,000. The Highway Department has made surveys, and reports that it can economically expend at least $10,000,000 per year, so the bond funds will be used to supplement the current funds and enable the Department to go forward with a comprehensive construction program and close up many of the unimproved links in the State Highway during the next two years.

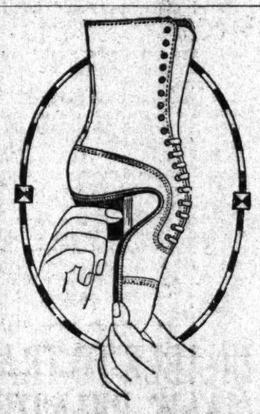
MOTHER! CLEAN CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of Mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.



Stopped Again

How many times a day is your circulation halted? If the traffic of your blood is continually arrested by the restricting hands of tight clothing, you are laying the foundation for ills and discomfort.

Especially in your feet is the danger imminent. When your arch is bound down to the hard, unyielding shank of the ordinary shoe, circulation is retarded, and your foot muscles become weakened through disuse. But the Cantilever Shoe has a flexible arch which bends with the foot. The circulation is unrestricted and the muscles left free to develop through exercise.

At no point in the Cantilever Shoe is there any intereference with nature. The fore part is carefully shaped to give the toes ample room and to hold them in proper position. The heels are placed so as to give ideal balance to the whole foot. You are comfortable and you keep well in Cantilevers!

THIN, FLAT HAIR
GROWS LONG, THICK AND ABUNDANT

"Danderine" costs only 35 cents a bottle. One application ends all dandruff, stops itching and falling hair, and in a few moments, you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will appear a mass, so soft, lustrous, and easy to do up. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. "Danderine" is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. This delightful, stimulating tonic helps thin, lifeless, faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and luxuriant.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

vice Retirement law, President Harding has been requested to issue an order of such a character at once.

No so-called "unclassified" employee comes within the provisions of this retirement law. The thousands of unclassified employees include the laborers, charwomen and others among the very poorest paid of all government workers and these are the most sorely in need of the benefits of the retiremnt act. Among the instances brought to the attention of the President were those of two superannuated charwomen who, after a lifetime of service cleaning the buildings of one of the large executive departments in Washington, have been dropped from the rolls without the slightest provision for their remaining years. Aged men, after service as long and continuous as the service of any of the so-called "classified" employees are daily being swept out of their positions in the wholesale reductions of government forces now in progress, many of these with dependents and no means of support.

Governor Scott Bone, of Alaska, who is in Washington, reports that the inhabitants of that far away territory are heartily in favor of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Public sentiment in Alaska for prohibition is splendid," says Governor Bone. "This is indicated by the American Legion post at Ketchikan adopting a strong resolution in favor of strict enforcement, and a similar resolution by the Elks at Juneau. The smuggling problem across the Canadian border, with the helpful cooperation on the part of British Columbia officials, promises early solution."

THE LOTUS EATER

A Startling Play This Week—Star Is a Genius

On Friday and Saturday of this week, 17th and 18th instants, we here in Alexandria are to have a real Movie treat. John Barrymore, the star, is a genius who may develop into one of the first order. Time will tell. The cast is what they call an "All-star cast," and includes "Freckles," dear to the American heart, as the type of our own national youngster. The story is by Albert Payson Terhune, a popular writer, and is full of thrills and novel situations. Three beautiful women making love to one man, smacks of the impossible, but seems perfectly natural when you see it done in this Movie.

From the glitter and bluster and bustle of Broadway to the land of the lotus-eater where citron apples bloom and oranges like leafy gold are seen, and back again,—the spectator dwells in breathless suspense and awaits the denouement.

The fact that George Ade, prince of American humorists, wrote the subtitles, insures an added attraction to the pictures. There is genuine comedy and real life, and flesh-and-blood acting. Our readers may remember the newspaper accounts of the Lotus Eater Company being stranded off the Florida Coast in a yacht, and how the Director swam ashore and hired an aeroplane to watch over the marooned actors till they were rescued. Marshall Neilan is the producer of the play, and he is one of the Movie producers that is so in love with his art that expense is a minor consideration, and that is what takes the public.

Tomorrow and Saturday nights this fascinating production will be given at the Richmond. We have only one suggestion to make! Let the Richmond orchestra play Jazz for Broadway, and give us some oriental music for the tropic isle of the blest. If they can work in the "Song of India," or some piece akin to the mysticism and soul-entrancing languor of seas and lands under the Southern Cross—it would certainly add to the pleasure and enhance the artistic values.

MRS. HATFIELD SABINA, OHIO

In Pitiable Condition when she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sabina, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and irregularity. I was weak and nervous and could hardly stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal. I was this way for about a year and had tried several medicines and had a physician, but to no avail. My sister was taking your medicine and finally induced me to try it. I now feel fine and can do my housework without any trouble at all. You can use this letter for the sake of others if you wish."—Mrs. WELDON G. HATFIELD, R. R. 3, Sabina, Ohio.

Housewives make a great mistake in allowing themselves to become so weak and nervous that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken when you first notice such symptoms as nervousness, backache, weakness and irregularity. It will help you and prevent more serious trouble. Give it a fair trial. It surely helped Mrs. Hatfield, just as it has many, many other women.

NEW CLOSED CAR PLANT FINISHED

A definite expectation of an unusually heavy demand for the sedan and coupe throughout the year is indicated by Dodge Brothers recent completion of an immense new closed body plant. The production capacity is said to have been practically doubled and dealers are being assured that the factory will do its utmost to keep apace with the usual rush of spring and summer orders.

Despite the most strenuous efforts, such as a greatly enlarged working force and long night shifts, it was impossible to catch up with the demand for several months after the improved type of sedan and coupe made their appearance last fall. From this enthusiastic reception of the improved cars it was evident that much greater facilities would be required, with the natural result that the new closed body plant was hurried to completion in ample time to meet the combined emergency brought about by spring and a sharp price reduction.

With the straight sweeping body lines, disc wheels and custom windows in the improved sedan, Dodge Brothers seem to have considered the motorist's every desire in design and in comfort features. Cleanly chiseled body lines, which flow squarely backward from the cowl, strike the observer with their simple beauty. The windows are square cut in design and further enhance the straight, graceful silhouette of the body. Considerably lower, the whole ensemble in its outward appearance immediately impresses one with its dignity and harmony of design.

The disc wheels are done in black enamel with cream stripe and hide from view the springs and other underneath parts. The disc wheels may be removed with facility and are easily cleaned. The brilliant lustre of the sedan's exterior finish is familiar to all owners of Dodge Bros., motor cars.

In the interior appointments, the sedan leaves little to be desired. Delicately striped mohair velvet is used in upholstering the wide, commodious rear seat. In front is a deep, wide, solid seat with rounded sides, also trimmed in the striped material. The four doors, which permit easy entrance and exit from any part of the sedan, are upholstered with plain mohair velvet in a soft fawn gray. Combined with the heavily nickeled handles by which the windows are easily raised or lowered, this adds a richness of tone which can hardly be adequately described.

The windows in the doors and body are garnished with natural black walnut and are of polished plate glass. The body of the car is equipped with Yale locks, affording additional protection against theft and insuring the safekeeping of bundles and other articles when shopping. Handy side pockets, arm rests and windshield cleaner are other conveniences of the improved Dodge Brothrs sedan.

Other notable refinements are weather strips inside the doors, as an extra protection in unpleasant weather, anti rattlers, on the windows and a body heater connected with the exhaust.

DOGS IN HISTORY AND LEGEND

The dog is placed at the feet of women in sculpture to symbolize affection and fidelity.

A dog at the feet of a Crusador was symbolic of the fact that the crusader followed the standard of the Lord as faithfully as the dog follows the footsteps of his master.

Cerberus, according to Roman mythology, was the 3 headed dog guarding the entrance to the infernal regions. Hercules dragged the monster to earth but released him.

David Lawrence, hero of a popular old English tale, had a dog which was so lazy that it leaned its head against a well when it barked.

Barry, the famous mastiff of Great St. Bernard's in the early part of the nineteenth century, was instrumental in saving the lives of forty Alpine travelers.

The expression, "dog in the manger," was applied to a churlish person who will not use what is wanted by another nor tie the other use it.

"Barking dogs never bite, had its origin in the statement that the dogs in their wild state never bark, but howl, whine and growl. Barking is an acquired habit and, it was believed, was no indication of a savage temper.

In the Far East the dog is still held in abhorrence as a scavenger of the streets, and the appellation "dirty dog" is the superlative of disdain.

"Dog-watch" is a corruption of "dodge-watch" and has no relation to dogs. In seafaring two short watches, one from 4 o'clock to 6 and the other from 6 to 8 in the evening, were interduced to dodge the routine or prevent the same men always keeping watch at the same time.

Richmond—Senator J. Douglas Mitchell, representing King and Queen and Essex counties, last night came out in unqualified endorsement of the bill favoring consolidation of the University of Virginia medical department and the Medical College of Virginia.

Stella Has a Strange Visitor.

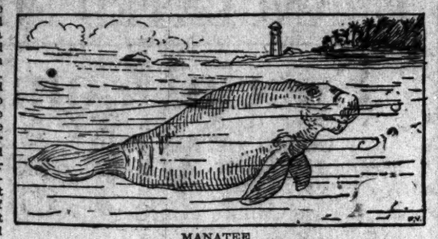
Do you know what a Manatee is?

Mr. Manatee had traveled and traveled until at last he had come to the End-of-the-Earth. It had taken him twice as long to reach it as it would have taken any one else because walking is quite the hardest thing that a Manatee can do; in fact, he can't really walk, as he has no feet! He can only shuffle and drag himself along over the ground by using his flapper tail and arm fins, which are the nearest things to feet that he can boast of and which have to serve him as such. Of course he was perfectly delighted to finally reach Stella, the Wishing Fairy, even though he had no wish, but merely wanted to see her, and after he had left her the four Brownies all crowded around her and wanted to hear all about everything concerning Manatees.

The Brownies are ever so curious. They simply hate to miss anything, and they had missed seeing Mr. Manatee—that is, all but Pimzie, and he had had only a glimpse of him in the distance.

"He reminded me a bit of a Seal," the Brownie said, "at least, the little I saw of him did, and I thought him terribly ugly!"

"Well," and the Fairy laughed, "I can't say that good looks were very noticeable about him. Here, I'll draw a picture of him so that you'll know exactly what he looks like." And while Stella drew she told them that even though Mr. Manatee had had no wish to ask her to make come true she had waved her magic wand over him (for she can do anything with that star wand of hers) so that when he should want to start back for home he would suddenly find himself there and be spared the terrific effort of that long trip without any feet.



MANATEE

"For," she explained, "his fore limbs are flattened into fins, but the hind limbs are lacking altogether. In the water he is very much at home swimming, with his two fins and with his strong fan shaped tail."

"What is his skin like?" Snookums asked curiously, as he looked at the picture.

"It is grayish black, and becomes quite black when wet, and it is covered with bristles."

"Do Manatees live in the deeper parts of the ocean, or where?" asked Kinkajou, "for we didn't swim across any during our trip under the sea."

"No," replied the Fairy; "they generally stay near the shore, especially around those places where rivers empty into the ocean, and they dearly love to swim far—ever so far, up the rivers, where they always keep close to the banks."

"Why?"

"So that they can easily get the water weeds and plants, for that is all they live on. They eat nothing else."

"How big are they?"

"Oh, from four to ten feet long. They have a piglike snout, with nostrils at the end of it; but instead of being called 'Sea Pigs' they are—what do you suppose they are called?"

"Can't guess," laughed Pimzie. "Tell us."

"Sea Cows!" was the amazing answer.

VIRGINIA NEWS

Petersburg—Tomorrow is the last day of the auction sale at Camp Lee, and the bidding today was more spirited than at any time since the sale began, between 1,500 and 1,600 buildings were sold at prices ranging from $5 to $500 each.

Staunton—It's all over except the shouting—this will be done by Tuckerites at the conclusion of the Tenth District democratic conveniton in Staunton tomorrow. Unless there comes an unprecedented upset, and politicians here and in other sections of the district don't see how it could possibly happen Harry St. George Tucker, of Lexington, will be nominated on the first ballot to make the race in the special election Tuesday, March 21, for the seat in congress made vacant by the death of Representative Henry D. Flood.

Richmond—Following close on the heels of similar attacks on other cars of the Virginia Railway and Power Company, a Lakeside trolley was fired upon from ambush in Henrico county just outside of the city limits late Saturday night. A bullet tore through one of the windows and buried itself in the woodwork of the car just above the heads of W. H. Lawrence and Paul Jones, of the Henrico police force, who were on the car acting as guards, according to Sheriff W. W. Sydnor.

Richmond—Unanimous approval of the Ozlin-Byrd bill abolishing the present State Highway Commission, and creating a new highway commission, was given by the Committee on Roads and Inland Navigation at the meeting yesterday afternoon, and the measure will be reported favorably to the House of Delegates this morning. This measure has the indorsement of Governor Trinkle, carrying out his reorganization plan.

Richmond—Judge Edmund Waddill, Jr., of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, yesterday handed down an opinion in which he declared that a search warrant was not valid unless it gave the name of the person, the place to be searched and the articles to be sought. The opinion further ruled that anything seized without a search warrant properly executed in this manner could not be introduced as evidence against the accused. Lawyers consider the opinion far reaching in its scope.

Richmond—Speaker Brewer is determined to stop lobbying on the floor of the house. Saturday he ordered one young woman from the floor and announced that he would, if it became necessary to stop the solicitation of members, revoke all floor privileges except those of press representatives and former members. Discussing the cash consequence of this abuse of courtesies, Mr. Brewer said: 'It will be a difficult task to figure in dollars and cents just what this lobbying costs the people of Virginia. I do not mean in bills that are passed but in bills that die on the calendar because members have to neglect the interests of the state while listening to these pleas for votes.

HOME BEAUTIFUL

Perpendicular Lines Are Made Use of in Decoration.

"Tell us again," requests a correspondent, "of the use of line in decoration. I know if I could master it I could achieve an attractive home. I think at one moment I know the principle of the thing and lo, and behold! when I go to apply it I haven't got it at all."

So being an obliging person, here goes:

The human eye is attracted to a line placed in front of it, and the eye telegraphs to the brain impressions of what it sees. Now that mischievous eye sometimes exaggerates those impressions, but instead of our frowning upon this habit we rejoice at it, for it gives us an excellent opportunity to make use of lines in decoration with which to overcome deflects in proportion, &c.

For instance, the eye will travel the length of a line placed in front of it and being prone to exaggerate it will telegraph to the brain that that line which it is traveling is really longer than it is.

Therefore, if by replacing a line on a surface we can give the impression that that surface extends beyond its actual length, we thus have the power to seemingly manipulate the proportions of a room.

In to-day's sketch the artist has used a striped wall paper giving an example of how perpendicular lines will emphasize height

Furniture Lines May Be Made Use of When Wishing to Emphasize Certain of a Rooms Proportions.

In discussing the use of line in decorating in my last two articles I have dealt with the application of lines to walls and window treatments entirely. How about furniture? Cannot it also be used to emphasize either the height or width of a room? It certainly can.

If, for instance, your room lacks height, if the ceiling is too low for good proportions furniture with perpendicular lines will seemingly make the room higher.

The screen shown in to-day's sketch demonstrated this fact. The perpendicular panels, the straight lines of the border all attract the eye of the "up and down" dimensions, and the brain receives a dispatch that leads it to believe the perpendicular is most noticeable in this room.

A like use may be made of furniture with horizontal lines. Take a high ceilinged room, or a too narrow room and place a low, long lined article of furniture such as a davenport, long table or buffet in it and horizontal planes are emphasized.

This furniture may be placed out in a room, it need not be against the wall to obtain the desired result. If, for instance, your room is rather long and narrow a shortening and widening process will take place if a davenport is placed at right angles to one of the long walls, or if several rugs are placed lengthwise across the narrow dimensions of the floor.

Modern Decorators Have Rehabilitated the Old Time Grill.

Do you remember the grills placed between doorways in our grandmothers' homes? Well, they have come back into fashion. Mercy no! not the twisted tortured affairs of those earlier days, but modern pieces of bright colored wood. In other words, they are the old timers all dressed up as twentieth century misses.

And truly charming are these rehabilitated old favorites. So disguised are they in their brilliant new dresses that they are not recognizable as old friends. That is well, for industriously has the present generation gone about eliminating the poor old twisted grills, which tried so hard to look attractive in an earlier period of decoration.

And horrible affairs they were. Wise have we been in learning not to love them.

That there are advantages in door grills was realized by modern decorators. They eliminate the necessity of buying so much drapery material and they do allow more light to be dispensed between rooms. So recalling to mind the old styles some brilliant mind decided to modernize it and adapt it to present needs.

The result has been that conventional flowers, birds of wondrous plumage and flat designs all brilliantly colored have taken the place of the scrolls of yore.

Wooden Lambrequins Fashioned on the Style of the Old Grill Are Seen.

In my last article we talked about modern grills for doorways, and to-day I want to tell of another use to which they may be put.

That these new grills have a message cannot be denied. We should lend an ear to it, and in doing so we will discover many uses for them.

Take, for instance, to-day's illustration showing one used as a lambrequin. For a room decorated in a modern tone what could be more charming? Over plain blue draperies a painted wooden design of blues, yellows, rose and lavender would strike a harmonious note, and with a wisteria material a green and black lambrequin would be most decorative.

The possibilities of introducing color into an interior through such a medium are manifold. Often a room's dimensions are too limited to allow the use of figured draperies, and yet it is desired to have some color design in that part of the room. A wooden lambrequin may be pressed into service and will undoubtedly save the day.

Where do they come from? you ask. If the shops in your locality do not carry them call in the local carpenter and see what he can do, or if you have some youthful friend familiar with the uses of the jig-saw give him the fun of copying a design you have selected and color it yourself.

IN CONGRESS Yesterday

Senator King (Democrat), Utah, made public a letter from the President in which the executive indicated he would not call a housing conference until the unemployment and agricultural conferences have shown substantial evidences of accomplishment.

In a letter to Chairman Page, of the naval affairs committee, the President expressed his approval of a resolution to extend the time under which government-owned radio stations may be used for the transmission of press and commercial dispatches, such a resolution having passed the House and is now pending in the Senate.

Insist upon it always—for nothing else can be like it.
